UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF ARIZONA

Brian Mecinas, et al.,
Plaintiffs,
v.
Katie Hobbs, in her official capacity as the Arizona Secretary of State, Defendant.

No. 19-cv-05547-PHX-DJH

RESPONSE TO ARIZONA
SECRETARY OF STATE'S
NOTICE OF SUPPLEMENTAL AUTHORITY

26
27
28

1 On April 29, 2020, the Secretary submitted a Notice of Supplemental Authority
2 alerting the Court to the opinion issued by the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals in 3 Jacobson, et al. v. Lee, et al., No. 19–14552, on April 29, 2020. (Doc. 67). The Secretary’s
4 contention that the appellate decision in Jacobson—which notably rests only on questions
5 of standing and does not reach the merits of the lower court’s decision—should guide this 6 Court in the instant case is foreclosed by numerous binding precedents in this Circuit.

7 First, the Eleventh Circuit’s holding that the injury flowing from Florida’s Ballot 8 Order Statute is not traceable to or redressable by Florida’s Secretary of State is based on 9 specific features of Florida law, as well as contrary to binding precedent in this Circuit, 10 multiple recent opinions by judges in this district where the Secretary has attempted to 11 disclaim responsibility for Arizona’s elections laws, and the holdings of multiple other 12 courts nationwide when presented with similar questions. As Plaintiffs noted in their 13 Response to the Secretary’s Motion to Dismiss (Doc. 27), in Arizona Libertarian Party, 14 Inc. v. Bayless, 351 F.3d 1277, 1280-81 (9th Cir. 2003), the Ninth Circuit affirmed the 15 district court’s holding that Secretary’s broad responsibility to oversee the administration
16 of elections made her the proper defendant in a challenge to an Arizona election law. See 17 Doc. 27 at 11. This argument was recently rejected again by two courts in this district. See
18 Order, Dem. Nat’l Com. v. Reagan, No. CV-16-01065-DLR, Doc. 267 at 6 (D. Ariz. March 19 3, 2017); Ariz. Democratic Party v. Reagan, No. CV-16-03618-PHX-SPL, 2016 WL
20 6523427, at *1, *6 (D. Ariz. Nov. 3, 2016); see also Doc 27. at 10-11. Multiple other
21 decisions from federal courts in other jurisdictions similarly run contrary to Jacobson’s
22 analysis. See, e.g., OCA-Greater Houston v. Texas, 867 F.3d 604, 613-14 (5th Cir. 2017)
23 (injury stemming from election law redressable by state’s Secretary of State); United States
24 v. Missouri, 535 F.3d 844, 846 n.1 (8th Cir. 2008) (same); Harkless v. Brunner, 545 F.3d
25 445, 451-52 (6th Cir. 2008) (same); McLain v. Meier, 851 F.2d 1045, 1048 (8th Cir. 1988)

1 (finding voter plaintiff had standing to sue Secretary of State based on injury that was fairly 2 traceable to ballot order law).¹

3 Second, the Secretary's reliance on the Eleventh Circuit's conclusion that the 4 plaintiffs in that case had not suffered an injury in fact is yet again foreclosed by binding
5 precedent in this Circuit. Unlike the Eleventh Circuit, the Ninth Circuit has repeatedly 6 recognized the concept of "competitive standing," holding that a political organization 7 suffers a direct organizational injury when its "interest in having a fair competition" is 8 compromised. Drake v. Obama, 664 F.3d 774, 782-83 (9th Cir. 2011); see also id. at 783
9 ("[T]he 'potential loss of an election' [is] injury-in-fact sufficient to give a local candidate
10 and Republican party officials standing.") (quoting Owen v. Mulligan, 640 F.2d at 1130, 11 1132-33 (9th Cir. 1981)); Owen, 640 F.2d at 1133 (holding that political candidate and party
12 had standing where they sought "to prevent their opponent from gaining an unfair advantage 13 in the election process" which "arguably promote his electoral prospects") (quotation marks 14 and citation omitted). This is precisely the injury Plaintiffs allege here. See, e.g., Doc. 13 ¶¶
15 49-63; Doc. 14 at 10-13; Hearing Tr. at 255:6-257:4, 258:9-262:7. Indeed, the Secretary 16 herself has previously acknowledged in this litigation that in the Ninth Circuit "competitive 17 standing has [] been recognized for candidates and political parties." Doc. 34 at 4 (citing 18 Drake, 664 F.3d at 782-83).

21 ¹ Even if the Eleventh Circuit's holding on this score were not an outlier (which it 22 demonstrably is), as a pure factual matter the Arizona Secretary of State is more directly 23 responsible for the enforcement of the ordering of Arizona's ballot than Florida's Secretary
24 of State. The Arizona Secretary promulgates regulations to county officials in the Election
25 Procedures Manual, which is issued every two years and carries the force of law. A.R.S. § 26 16-452(B), (C) (making it a class 2 misdemeanor to violate a rule promulgated by the 27 secretary). In the 2019 Manual, the Secretary issued detailed instructions on ballot design 28 and expressly required counties to order candidates' names on ballots according to the Ballot Order Statute. 2019 Elec. Proc. Manual, available at https://azsos.gov/sites/default/files/2019_ELECTIONS_PROCEDURES_MANUAL_APPROVED.pdf (last accessed Apr. 30, 2020). By contrast, the Eleventh Circuit noted that the only control Florida's Secretary of State has over Florida Supervisors of Elections as related to ballot order is by her power to seek a writ of mandamus to enforce the performance of any duties of a county supervisor of elections. See Jacobson, No. 19-14552, slip op. at 26 (citing Fla. Stat. § 97.012(14)).

1 Finally, Judge William Pryor’s dicta in concurrence regarding the effect of Rucho v.
 2 Common Cause, 139 S. Ct. 2484 (2019), in addition to being entirely wrong on the law, is 3 a single circuit judge’s opinion and has no binding effect in even the Eleventh Circuit let 4 alone this case. As Plaintiffs detailed in their response to the Secretary’s Motion to Dismiss, 5 Rucho’s plain terms limit it to the partisan gerrymandering context. (Doc. 27 at 15). Unlike 6 that unique context, where federal courts were agonizing over the proper legal test to apply
 7 for decades, federal courts have been easily and ably deciding First and Fourteenth 8 Amendment challenges similar to the ones Plaintiffs bring here for decades—including to 9 ballot order statutes specifically—using the Anderson-Burdick balancing test. See, e.g., 10 Mann v. Powell, 314 F. Supp. 677, 678-79 (N.D. Ill. 1969), aff’d 398 U.S. 955 (1970); see
 11 also Doc. 27 at 2, 3, 15-17; Doc. 29 at 7 (Secretary acknowledging Anderson-Burdick 12 “governs challenges to the voting process,” including this one). As a majority of the 13 Eleventh Circuit panel in Jacobson determined, Rucho has no applicability here.

14 In sum, the Eleventh Circuit decision cannot and does not upend or undo the 15 governing standards in the Ninth Circuit. Based on binding, applicable Ninth Circuit 16 precedent, Plaintiffs have established standing and the Secretary’s motion to dismiss (Doc.
 17 26) should be denied.
