28 Attorneys for Defendant Barbara Cegavske, in her official capacity as Nevada Secretary of State

1 Secretary of State Barbara Cegavske opposes Plaintiffs' Emergency Motion for 2 Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction. The Secretary's opposition is 3 made and based upon all matters of record herein, the Memorandum of Points and 4 Authorities submitted herewith, and upon such oral arguments as the court may allow at 5 the time of hearing of this matter.

6 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

7 I. INTRODUCTION

8 Premised on purported violations of Nevada statute that were rejected in Nevada 9 state district court and pending before the Nevada Supreme Court, Plaintiffs seek 10 emergency relief from this federal court to stop Clark County's continued processing and 11 counting of mail ballots. Instead of attempting to surmise how the Nevada Supreme 12 Court would resolve Nevada law, this court should abstain from considering this case.

13 Even if this court chose to undertake an independent examination of Nevada law, 14 nothing proffered by Plaintiffs requires injunctive relief. "A preliminary injunction is an 15 extraordinary remedy never awarded as of right." Winter v. Natural Res. Def. Council, 16 Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 24 (2008). Here, the Winter factors, specifically Plaintiffs' unevidenced, 17 unmeritorious legal arguments and the weighing of the public interest and the equities do 18 not support granting injunctive relief.

19 II. REVIEW OF THE EMERGENCY MOTION AND THE UNDERLYING 20 COMPLAINT

21 In their complaint, Plaintiffs Jill Stokke, Chris Prudhome, Marchant for Congress
22 and Rodimer for Congress make unsupported allegations pertaining to Clark County's 23 conduct of the 2020 election. See Compl. at ¶ 11.¹ In this motion, Plaintiffs make two sets 24 of allegations.

25 First, Plaintiff Stokke alleges that someone else cast her mail vote without her 26 knowledge, a potential felony under Nevada Revised Statute 293.775, when she 27

28 ¹ Plaintiffs have not proffered evidence for these allegations and do not merit a response until or unless they do so.

1 attempted to early vote.² The Secretary of State’s Office independently investigated Ms.
2 Stokke’s complaint. Rather than affirm that she had not submitted the mail ballot in 3 writing (effectively challenging the prior vote) to receive a provisional ballot, Ms. Stokke 4 refused because she did not feel she could implicate someone else for a crime. Instead of 5 addressing this allegation on one ballot, Ms. Stokke seeks to stop all continued use of the 6 Agilis machine on an emergency basis for Clark County in its entirety. This is absurd and 7 must be rejected by this court.

8 Second, Plaintiff Prudhome, alleges that he was an observer for the Trump 9 Campaign and a credentialed member of the media at the same time. See Prudhome Decl.
10 at ¶ 2 (Trump observer), ¶4 (media).³ Nevada statute specifically distinguishes observers 11 from the media. NRS 293.274(3). Further, Nevada statute does not authorize observers or 12 media to take pictures of the ballot counting. Instead, should the county record or 13 photograph ballot counting, a registered voter may submit a request for any such 14 recording or photograph. NRS 293B.353(3). After not being allowed to be a Trump 15 observer and media at the same time, Prudhome alleges that Clark County staff told him 16 “they would be counting for an hour and a half,” but “after just a few minutes, they 17 ordered all of us observers out.” Id. at ¶ 6. He does not allege that the tabulation 18 continued without observers that evening.⁴ Based on that unstated and unsupported 19 allegation, Prudhome seeks an injunction to “be required to allow meaningful access to 20
21
22

23 ² Voting twice also violates Nevada statute. See NRS 293.780.

24 ³ Per internet research, Mr. Prudhome is the president of Sunvision Strategies, a 25 firm that works on political and corporate strategies and strategic communications. He 26 also works to engage millennials and minorities in the voting process and has appeared 27 frequently on Fox News Channel. See <https://www.foxnews.com/person/p/chris-prudhome>

28 ⁴ Plaintiffs’ counsel makes additional allegations pertaining to Mr. Prudhome without specifying how he would have “personal knowledge” of these items. See Mot. at 3:11-20. None of these allegations, such as an attempted denial of “entry to the office,” screens being “all turned off and faced away from him,” or election officials asking “law enforcement to remove him from the building,” were attested to by Mr. Prudhome himself.

1 the ballot counting process.” Mot. at 8:1-3. Clark County has already agreed to provide 2 additional access, as part of a voluntary dismissal of a Nevada state court case.⁵

3 It is under these extraordinary circumstances that Plaintiffs seek extraordinary 4 injunctive relief premised on this court’s interpretation of Nevada statute. The court 5 should abstain from doing so. Alternatively, Plaintiffs fail to meet their evidentiary 6 burden to obtain extraordinary relief.

7 III. STANDARD OF REVIEW

8 “A preliminary injunction is an extraordinary remedy never awarded as of right.”
9 Winter v. Natural Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 24 (2008). Plaintiffs otherwise 10 correctly identify that they “must establish” four factors, including a likelihood of success 11 on the merits.

12 IV. LEGAL ANALYSIS

13 A. Plaintiffs are Highly Unlikely to Succeed on their Speculative 14 Claims, which Lack a Factual or Legal Basis⁶

15 First, Plaintiffs do not have a valid Elections Clause claim because Clark County’s 16 use of the Agilis machine complies with Nevada statute. Section 22(2)(a) of Assembly Bill 17 4 specifically allows Clark County’s registrar to authorize “mail ballots to be processed 18 and counted by electronic means.” Section 23 does not specify by what method “the clerk 19 or an employee in the office of the clerk shall check the signature used for the mail 20 ballot,” only that the first step shall be to “check the signature used for the mail ballot 21 against all signatures of the voter available in the records of the clerk.” This is exactly 22 what Clark County does with its use of the Agilis machine. The state district court 23 rejected this identical argument, finding it meritless. See October 29 Order at 12:20-24, a 24 true and correct copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

25 ⁵ A true and correct copy of the Nevada Supreme Court filing is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

26 ⁶ Plaintiffs also contend that there is no adequate legal remedy. Mot. at 6:18-23.
27 Not true. Plaintiff Stokke has an adequate remedy at law pertaining to her vote – 28 challenging the purportedly fraudulent valid under Nevada statute. Similarly, Plaintiff Prudhome has additional access to observe vote counting, based on the pending status of the Nevada state court case.

1 As addressed in the state court matter, the Agilis machine conducts this initial 2 review, matching signatures approximately 30% of the time. The state district court, 3 following a day-long evidentiary hearing, found “[n]o evidence was presented of any Agilis 4 errors or inaccuracies.” Ex. B at 4:14. “No evidence was presented that there is any 5 indication of any error in Clark County’s Agilis signature match rate.” Id. at 4:14-16.⁷ 6 One unpursued ballot challenge by Ms. Stokke does not change this determination. The 7 remaining 70% proceed through a detailed human review process that complies with 8 Nevada law and has not been challenged by Plaintiffs in this case.

9 Second, Plaintiffs are unlikely to succeed on their Equal Protection claim. Nevada 10 statute (namely Section 22 of Assembly Bill 4) allows each county clerk to decide whether 11 or how to use “electronic means” to process ballots. This makes perfect sense in Nevada, 12 which has two urban counties and fifteen rural counties, allowing each to determine what 13 works best for their citizens. This constitutes a rational basis for the Nevada Legislature 14 to empower each county to decide whether to use electronic means. Under rational basis 15 review, legislation is presumed to be valid and will be sustained “if there is a rational 16 relationship between the disparity of treatment and some legitimate governmental 17 purpose.” Heller v. Doe, 509 U.S. 312, 320, 113 S.Ct. 2637, 125 L.Ed.2d 257 (1993).
18 Nevada need not “produce evidence to sustain the rationality of a statutory classification,” 19 rather, “[t]he burden is on the one attacking the legislative arrangement to negative every 20 conceivable basis which might support it.” Id. (emphasis added). Assembly Bill 4 clearly 21 complies with rational basis review. Further, as this Court has already concluded, a 22 speculative prospect of voter fraud or vote dilution does not constitute an injury sufficient 23 to confer standing upon a plaintiff or petitioner who alleges a violation of the Equal 24

25 ⁷ To be clear, Plaintiffs in the state court case challenged the scan resolution issue 26 also raised by Plaintiffs in this case. Compare Compl. at ¶ 14 (scanning resolution 27 allegation) with Nevada Supreme Court Emergency Motion (Nov. 3, 2020) at 8 (same), a 28 true and correct copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit C. Plaintiffs’ counsel in this case is Petitioners’ counsel in the state court case. Finally, the state court determined at the evidentiary hearing that one of Petitioners’ attorneys knew Clark County intended to use the Agilis machine in advance of the general election. Ex. B at 4:5-6.

1 Protection Clause. See Donald J. Trump for President, Inc., 2020 WL 5626974 at * 7; 2 Paher, 457 F.Supp.3d at 926-27.

3 Third, Plaintiffs are unlikely to succeed on their ballot-counting access claim. As 4 alleged by Plaintiff Prudhome, at most, he was denied less than 90 minutes of access to 5 ballot counting. Further access has been supplied by Clark County in accordance with the 6 Nevada state district court case.

7 B. The Balance of Other Winters Factors Weigh Strongly Against 8 Injunctive Relief

9 The other Winters factors favor denial of injunctive relief in this case. First, 10 Plaintiffs’ consideration of the relative harms relies completely on the assumption that 11 Defendants are not complying with Nevada statute. Mot. at 7:1-4. The lack of merits has 12 already been addressed.

13 Second, no consideration is given to the harms Defendants suffer from Plaintiffs’ 14 creation of unnecessary additional processing. Specifically, at the state court evidentiary 15 hearing, the court found “that if Clark County is not allowed to continue using Agilis the 16 county will not meet the canvass deadline.” Ex. B at 4:17-20. Further, Section 23(4) of 17 Assembly Bill 4 requires rejected signatures to be cured by November 12. Plaintiffs’ 18 proposed delay effectively eliminates voters’ ability to cure any potential issues with their 19 otherwise valid mail ballots, effectively disenfranchising them.

20 Third, enfranchising Nevada voters is in the public interest, particularly where 21 Plaintiffs offer no evidence outside of one voter who refuses to challenger what she 22 contends was her fraudulent ballot. Voting is at the heart of Nevada’s government and 23 evidence, rather than unsupported assertions, should be required to stop the counting of 24 valid Nevada ballots.

25 ...
26 ...
27 ...
28 ...

1 V. CONCLUSION

2 Nothing proffered by Plaintiffs as evidence warrants the extraordinary relief they 3 seek. Accordingly, the emergency motion must be denied.
