1 Plaintiffs Mi Familia Vota and Voto Latino (together, “MFV Plaintiffs”), by and 2 through counsel, file this Opposition to the Motion to Intervene as Defendant by the 3 Republican National Committee (“RNC”) (ECF No. 101, the “Motion” or “Mot.”). For the 4 reasons set forth below, MFV Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court deny the RNC’s 5 Motion. In the alternative, if the Court is inclined to grant intervention, MFV Plaintiffs 6 request that it strictly limit the scope of the RNC’s intervention in these consolidated 7 matters to permit the RNC to only brief issues not addressed by one of the other parties and 8 require the RNC to seek leave to file independent briefs.

9 INTRODUCTION

10 On June 23, 2022, the Court denied the RNC’s motion to intervene in the actions 11 brought by the Plaintiffs in Mi Familia Vota v. Hobbs, No. 2:22-cv-509 (“MFV”), and 12 Living United for Change in Arizona et al v. Hobbs, No. 2:22-cv-519 (“LUCHA”). Order 13 at 5-6, MFV, No. 2:22-cv-00509 (June 23, 2022), ECF No. 57 (“Order Denying RNC 14 Intervention”). Those cases are now consolidated, together with three other complaints, 15 before this Court. The RNC now seeks to intervene in all of them, including the MFV and 16 LUCHA actions in which this Court previous denied it intervention.

17 Nothing has changed, except that the Democratic National Committee and Arizona 18 Democratic Party (together, “DNC”) subsequently independently filed a complaint, and 19 the Court granted the RNC intervention to defend against the DNC’s claims, without 20 opposition from the DNC. Order, DNC v. Hobbs, No. CV-22-01369 (Aug. 24, 2022), ECF 21 No. 18. After that motion to intervene was granted, the DNC’s case was consolidated with 22 this action. Order, DNC, No. CV-22-01369 (Aug. 24, 2022), ECF No. 19. The RNC has 23 not sought reconsideration of the Court’s Order denying its motion to intervene against the 24 MFV or LUCHA Plaintiffs, either through a timely motion or now, nearly three months 25 later. And although the Court was clear in its June 23 Order about the circumstances under 26 which the RNC could seek to renew its motion—namely, if it “ha[s] substantiated concerns 27 about the adequacy of the defense or objections to the terms of a settlement,” Order 28

1 Denying RNC Intervention at 6—the RNC does not argue its intervention is now justified 2 on either of those clearly articulated grounds.

3 Instead, the RNC seeks to leverage the fact that it was granted intervention on an 4 unopposed motion to defend against the separate claims brought by the DNC, to argue it 5 should now be granted intervention in all five of the consolidated cases before this Court.
6 The RNC does not argue that its intervention is warranted by a significant change in the 7 underlying substantive facts or controlling law upon which this Court’s well-reasoned June 8 23 Order was based. Instead, the RNC simply contends that granting its motion would be 9 more administratively efficient.

10 The RNC is wrong. It can easily limit its briefing to address the claims brought by 11 the party against whom its intervention has been permitted, without causing confusion or 12 inefficiency. If anything, granting the RNC’s motion would obstruct the efficiency of these 13 proceedings, expanding the already substantial amount of briefing that this Court has to 14 contend with, making discovery more expansive and burdensome, and resulting in more 15 complexity in this already complex case. It is the law of the case that the RNC cannot 16 intervene in the MFV or LUCHA actions, yet the RNC offers nothing to explain why this 17 Court should depart from that ruling, and fails to even address that doctrine at all. The 18 Court denied the RNC intervention in this case in a detailed, thoughtful, and well-19 considered order following briefing in opposition from both the MFV and LUCHA 20 Plaintiffs. The RNC fails to identify a sufficient reason for this Court to revisit that 21 determination, and its new motion to intervene should be similarly denied.

22 If the Court nevertheless decides to grant the RNC’s Motion and allow it to intervene 23 in all five of the consolidated cases here, the Court should strictly limit the RNC’s role, 24 permitting it to only independently brief issues not addressed by the other parties to this 25 matter, and to only do so after seeking and obtaining leave from the Court. Courts in this 26 district have imposed similar strict limitations on intervenors (including the RNC itself) in 27 elections matters. Given the number and variety of parties involved in this case as plaintiffs 28 and defendants, the issues the RNC is concerned about are highly likely to receive full and

1 thorough development by the original parties. In the unlikely event the RNC deems the 2 parties' briefing insufficient, it is appropriate to require it to request leave to address any 3 such matters separately, to guard against its intervention impeding the efficient resolution 4 of this case.

5 BACKGROUND

6 Mi Familia Vota filed the original complaint in this action, challenging H.B. 2492,
7 on March 31, 2022. Compl., MFV (Mar. 31, 2022), ECF No. 1. The same day, the LUCHA
8 Plaintiffs filed a separate lawsuit challenging H.B. 2492. Compl., LUCHA (Mar. 31, 2022), 9 ECF No. 1. Nearly six weeks later, on May 12, the RNC, National Republican Senatorial 10 Committee, Republican Party of Arizona, Gila County Republican Party, and Mohave 11 County Republican Central Committee (collectively the "Republican Entities") moved to 12 intervene in both matters. Mots. to Intervene, MFV, No. 2:22-cv-00509 (May 12, 2022), 13 ECF No. 24, and LUCHA, No. 2:22-cv-00519 (May 12, 2022), ECF No. 23.¹ On May 17, 14 this Court consolidated LUCHA with MFV. Order, MFV, No. 2:22-cv-00509 (May 17, 15 2022), ECF No. 39.

16 On June 23, after full briefing on the Republican Entities' motions to intervene in 17 MFV and LUCHA (which the Court considered together after the matters were 18 consolidated), Resp., LUCHA, No. 2:22-cv-00519 (May 26, 2022), ECF No. 26; MFV, No.
19 2:22-cv-00509, ECF Nos. 46 (May 26, 2022) and 49 (June 2, 2022), the Court denied the 20 motions "without prejudice so that Movants may seek intervention if they have 21 substantiated concerns about the adequacy of the defense or objections to the terms of a 22 settlement." Order Denying RNC Intervention at 5-6. At no point has the RNC, nor any of 23 the other Republican Entities, filed any motion asking the Court to reconsider that ruling.

24 On August 15, the DNC filed a separate lawsuit challenging H.B. 2492. Compl., 25 DNC (Aug. 15, 2022), ECF No. 1. The next day, the RNC alone filed an unopposed motion 26 to intervene in that case. Unopposed Mot. to Intervene, DNC (Aug. 16, 2022), ECF No. 10.

27 _____
28 ¹ On May 13, Mi Familia Vota amended its complaint to add co-plaintiff Voto Latino. See Mi Familia Vota, No. 2:22-cv-00509 (May 13, 2022), ECF No. 38.

1 On August 24, this Court issued a short order granting the RNC’s unopposed intervention
2 into the DNC case, and then separately consolidated DNC into MFV later that same day.²

3 On September 6, the RNC filed the instant Motion to Intervene in the now five 4 consolidated cases. MFV, No. 2:22-cv-00509 (Sept. 6, 2022), ECF No. 101. The RNC
5 asserts that, by virtue of its unopposed intervention into DNC, it should be allowed 6 intervention in all the consolidated cases, including the two in which it was previously 7 denied intervention after full briefing. See generally Mot.

8 LEGAL STANDARD

9 Motions for reconsideration are governed by Local Civil Rule 7.2(g) and will 10 ordinarily be denied “absent a showing of manifest error or a showing of new facts or legal 11 authority that could not have been brought to [the Court’s] attention earlier with reasonable 12 diligence.” LRCiv 7.2(g). Such motions “shall be filed no later than fourteen (14) days 13 after the date of the filing of the Order that is the subject of the motion.” Id.

14 The law of the case is a discretionary doctrine which “mandates that courts follow 15 a prior decision ‘unless (1) the decision is clearly erroneous and its enforcement would 16 work a manifest injustice; (2) intervening controlling authority makes reconsideration 17 appropriate; or (3) substantially different evidence was adduced at a subsequent trial.’” 18 Mitchell v. United States, No. CV-09-08089-PCT-DGC, 2018 WL 4467897, at *3 (D. Ariz.
19 Sept. 18, 2018), aff’d, 958 F.3d 775 (9th Cir. 2020) (quoting Alaimalo v. United States, 20 645 F.3d 1042, 1049 (9th Cir. 2011)).

21 To intervene as of right pursuant to Rule 24(a)(2), a proposed intervenor must file a 22 timely motion and demonstrate that: (1) they have a significantly protectable interest in this 23 action; (2) disposition of the action may impair or impede their ability to protect that 24 interest; and (3) their purported interest is not adequately represented by existing parties to 25 the litigation. Perry v. Proposition 8 Off. Proponents, 587 F.3d 947, 950 (9th Cir. 2009).
26 A party seeking intervention “bears the burden of showing that all the requirements for 27 ² By this point, both Poder Latinx v. Hobbs, No 2:22-cv-1003, and United States. v.

28 Arizona, No. 2:22-cv-1124, had also been consolidated into MFV. The RNC has not previously moved to separately intervene in either of those cases.

1 intervention have been met.” United States v. Alisal Water Corp., 370 F.3d 915, 919 (9th
2 Cir. 2004) (citation omitted). “Failure to satisfy any one of the requirements is fatal to the 3 application.” United States v. Arizona, No. CV 10-1413-PHX-SRB, 2010 WL 11470582, 4 at *1 (D. Ariz. Oct. 28, 2010) (citing Perry, 587 F.3d at 950).

5 To justify permissive intervention under Rule 24(b), a party seeking intervention 6 must file a timely motion and demonstrate: (1) independent grounds for jurisdiction and 7 (2) that their claims share a question of law or fact with the main action. Miracle v. Hobbs, 8 333 F.R.D. 151, 156 (D. Ariz. 2019) (quoting S. Cal. Edison Co. v. Lynch, 307 F.3d 794, 9 803 (9th Cir. 2002)).

10 ARGUMENT

11 The Court should deny the RNC’s Motion. When the Court denied the RNC’s prior 12 motion to intervene in the MFV and LUCHA cases, it clearly articulated the circumstances 13 under which the RNC could seek to renew its motion, stating: “Movants may seek 14 intervention [again in the future] if they have substantiated concerns about the adequacy of 15 the defense or objections to the terms of a settlement.” Order Denying RNC Intervention 16 at 5-6. The RNC’s Motion fails to argue, much less establish, that either circumstance is 17 met. Nor could it: as reflected by the briefing that presaged the State’s recently filed motion 18 to dismiss (as well as the motion to dismiss itself), the Attorney General is vigorously 19 defending this matter. Nor have the parties entered into any settlement agreement to which 20 the RNC objects. The Motion also does not satisfy the standards applicable to a motion for 21 reconsideration or explain why the law of the case doctrine does not govern. Finally, the 22 RNC’s arguments about administrative efficiency are not sufficient to support intervention 23 and, in any event, are inaccurate. In the alternative, should the Court grant the motion to 24 intervene, it should strictly limit the RNC’s participation to solely briefing issues not 25 addressed by the other parties to this matter subject to the Court’s approval.

1 I. The RNC fails to meet the standard this Court previously set out for renewal 2 of its request for intervention.

3 In denying the RNC’s prior motion to intervene, the Court left open the possibility 4 that the RNC could renew its request for intervention, but only if it could later show that it 5 “ha[s] substantiated concerns about the adequacy of the defense or objections to the terms 6 of a settlement.” Order Denying RNC Intervention at 6. In the new Motion, the RNC does 7 not (and cannot) argue that either of those situations has occurred. The Attorney General 8 has continued to robustly defend this action, filing a motion to dismiss last week seeking 9 dismissal of all these consolidated cases. See ECF No. 127 (Sept. 16, 2022). The RNC’s 10 failure to satisfy the preconditions that the Court clearly set for renewal of its motion to 11 intervene is reason enough to deny its motion.

12 II. The RNC does not satisfy the requirements for a motion for reconsideration, 13 and the law of the case separately forecloses its Motion.

14 While the RNC has not satisfied the preconditions that the Court identified for 15 renewal of its request for intervention, it has also not sought reconsideration of that prior 16 order, nor does it explain why the law of the case does not preclude its new Motion.

17 To prevail on a motion for reconsideration, a party must show that the Court’s prior 18 order exhibited “manifest error” or demonstrate “new facts or legal authority that could not 19 have been brought to [the Court’s] attention earlier with reasonable diligence.” LRCiv 20 7.2(g). The law of the case doctrine requires a similar showing for a Court to revise a prior 21 decision. See Alaimalo, 645 F.3d at 1049 (explaining the law of the case doctrine requires 22 that courts follow a prior decision “unless (1) the decision is clearly erroneous and its 23 enforcement would work a manifest injustice; (2) intervening controlling authority makes 24 reconsideration appropriate; or (3) substantially different evidence was adduced at a 25 subsequent trial.”).

26 As explained in the MFV Plaintiffs’ opposition to that prior motion to intervene, the 27 RNC cannot demonstrate that it has any significantly protectable interest warranting 28 intervention; instead, it relies on generalized interests that are insufficient to justify

1 intervention under Rule 24. See MFV Pls.’ Opp. to Intervention at 6-8 (May 26, 2022),
2 ECF No. 46. Nor can the RNC overcome the strong presumption that Defendants—Arizona 3 government officials—adequately represent the generalized interests that the RNC seeks 4 to intervene to protect. Id. at 10-12. After carefully considering the parties’ arguments, the 5 Court correctly came to that conclusion and properly denied the Republican Entities’ 6 motion to intervene. See generally Order Denying RNC Intervention.

7 Nothing has changed on that front. As the Court previously found, it is still the case 8 that “circumstances weigh against” granting intervention where, like here, “the government 9 is representing its constituency, and despite [the RNC’s] arguments to the contrary, [the 10 RNC] and Defendants share the same objective: defending the constitutionality of H.B.
11 2492.” Id. at 3 (citing Citizens for Balanced Use v. Mont. Wilderness Ass’n, 647 F.3d 893, 12 898 (9th Cir. 2011), Proposition 8 Off. Proponents, 587 F.3d at 950, Yazzie v. Hobbs, No.
13 CV-20-08222-PCT-GMS, 2020 WL 8181703, at *3 (D. Ariz. Sept. 16, 2020), and Miracle, 14 333 F.R.D. at 156). As the parties sit here today, Defendants continue to aggressively 15 defend the challenged laws and have filed a motion to dismiss all of the claims brought by 16 all of the Plaintiffs. ECF No. 127.

17 And while it is true that the Court also noted that it was inclined to deny permissive 18 intervention because allowing the RNC to intervene “would needlessly inject partisan 19 politics” into the action, Order Denying RNC Intervention at 5 (cleaned up), and the DNC
20 has since brought its own affirmative claims challenging H.B. 2492, it also remains true 21 that the MFV Plaintiffs are nonpartisan entities who bring these claims based on H.B.
22 2492’s impediment to voting rights. The Supreme Court has emphasized that consolidation 23 should be understood “not as completely merging the constituent cases into one, but instead 24 as enabling more efficient case management while preserving the distinct identities of the 25 cases and the rights of the separate parties in them.” Hall v. Hall, 138 S. Ct. 1118, 1125 26 (2018). Accordingly, each consolidated case “retains its independent character,” id., and 27 the mere fact that the MFV case has now been consolidated with one brought by a political 28 committee does not transform MFV’s claims into ones that require the partisan viewpoint

1 of the RNC.

2 Nor has the law substantively changed since the Court issued its order denying the 3 RNC's earlier motion to intervene. While the RNC does not cite it here, in its motion to 4 intervene in the DNC action the RNC claimed that Berger v. North Carolina State 5 Conference of the NAACP, 142 S. Ct. 2191 (June 23, 2022), altered the presumption of 6 adequate representation. See RNC Unopposed Mot. to Intervene at 4-5, DNC, ECF No. 10.
7 That case involved a challenge to a voter-identification law brought against North 8 Carolina's governor and members of the state board of elections, in which legislative 9 leaders from the state's House and Senate sought to intervene as defendants consistent with 10 a North Carolina law that expressly authorized them to do so. Berger, 142 S. Ct. at 2198.
11 The Court held simply that when "a duly authorized state agent seeks to intervene to defend 12 a state law," the presumption of adequate representation that may apply when a private 13 litigant seeks to intervene on the side of the government is not applicable, and intervention 14 of those "duly authorized state agent[s]" should be permitted. Id. at 2204 (emphasis 15 added). The RNC, however, is not a state agent, and it is certainly not "duly authorized" 16 by the State of Arizona to defend against a challenge to Arizona state law.³

17 It remains the law in the Ninth Circuit that adequate representation is presumed 18 when a private litigant—such as the RNC—seeks to intervene on the side of the 19 government, and that when that litigant shares the same objective as a party, they must 20 make a "compelling showing" to show inadequacy of representation. See Order Denying 21 RNC Intervention at 3 (citing cases). Thus, there is no intervening change in the law that 22 would justify this Court's reconsideration of the prior motion to intervene or a need to vary 23 from the law of the case doctrine regarding this Court's previous decision to deny the RNC 24 intervention.

26
27 ³ The Berger Court explicitly declined to rule on the appropriateness of such a presumption 28 outside of that limited context, stating "to resolve this case we need not decide whether a presumption of adequate representation might sometimes be appropriate when a private litigant seeks to defend a law alongside the government or in any other circumstance." Id.

1 III. The RNC’s intervention will impede, not promote, the efficient resolution of 2 this matter.

3 Finally, the RNC’s contention that the Court should permit intervention in all the 4 consolidated cases because it would be a “logistical nightmare” if the RNC were permitted 5 to only defend against the claims made by the DNC, Mot. at 3, is not credible. Courts and 6 parties in litigation routinely navigate complex matters in which different parties are 7 making or responding to different claims, without incident, much less the nightmarish 8 results that the RNC projects. This action already presents such a case, in which different 9 plaintiffs raise different statutory and constitutional challenges to two different Arizona 10 laws. If anything, granting the RNC’s Motion and permitting it to intervene to defend 11 against every single claim brought by every single plaintiff in all of these consolidated 12 cases threatens to add far more complexity and impose far more burdens on the Court and 13 the parties than the current scenario, where the RNC has been permitted to intervene to 14 address the claims brought by the DNC alone. The undersigned is confident in the ability 15 of RNC counsel to figure out how to limit its briefing and discovery to the claims raised 16 by the DNC.

17 If the RNC is right and the only realistic result is that its involvement in this case in 18 that limited capacity will introduce a “logistical nightmare,” that is not a reason to find that 19 the RNC should be allowed to intervene in more cases. If anything, it would be reason to 20 reconsider the RNC’s intervention entirely. None of the plaintiff groups other than the 21 DNC were able to be heard when the RNC sought unopposed intervention in DNC because 22 that case had not yet been consolidated with the MFV Plaintiffs’ and other plaintiffs’ cases.
23 Yet, the RNC now submits that its unopposed intervention there—rather than its earlier 24 opposed and rejected intervention in MFV—should dictate its relationship to this matter. If 25 the RNC is to have only one relationship as regards all the consolidated matters, it should 26 be the one the Court determined was appropriate after considering all of the parties’ 27 positions on full briefing, not the unopposed motion that resulted in the RNC’s intervention 28

1 in the DNC case.⁴

2 IV. If the RNC is permitted to intervene, the Court should exercise its discretion 3 to strictly limit the scope of its intervention.

4 In the alternative, if the Court is persuaded to allow the RNC to intervene in all the 5 consolidated matters, it should exercise its power to limit the scope of that intervention.
 6 Courts in this district have repeatedly imposed restrictions on the participation and role of 7 intervenors in election cases on the side of both plaintiffs and defendants. For example, in 8 two recent election challenges, Judge Rayes and Judge Lanza ruled that intervenors, 9 including the RNC, could only brief issues not addressed by one of the other parties and 10 only after seeking leave to do so. See Ariz. Democratic Party v. Hobbs, No. CV-20-01143, 11 2020 WL 6559160, at *1 (D. Ariz. June 26, 2020) (recounting the “strict limitations the 12 Court has imposed to avoid redundant briefing and delay” on intervenors, including the 13 RNC); Mi Familia Vota v. Hobbs (“Mi Familia II”), No. CV-21-01423, 2021 WL 5217875, 14 at *2 (D. Ariz. Oct. 4, 2021) (“impos[ing] similar restrictions” on briefing by intervenors, 15 including the RNC).

16 If the RNC is permitted to intervene in all the consolidated matters, similar 17 restrictions are warranted. The consolidated matters already have multiple sovereign 18 entities on both the plaintiff and defense sides, more than a dozen individual plaintiffs and 19 plaintiff organizations, and nearly twenty state and local officials as Defendants. This Court 20 has already taken steps to limit the amount and scope of briefing given the number and 21 variety of parties involved. See Order at 3, MFV, No. 2:22-cv-00509 (Sept. 2, 2022), ECF 22

23 ⁴ The fact that the RNC was previously denied intervention in two of the consolidated cases 24 here before it was granted unopposed intervention in the DNC case readily distinguishes 25 this scenario from Lewis v. Knudson, Doc. 63, No. 3:20-cv-00284 (W.D. Wis. Mar. 31, 26 2020), and Swenson v. Bostelmann, Doc. 38 at 5, No. 20-cv-00459 (W.D. Wis. June 23, 27 2020), which the RNC misleadingly claims “fit[] this case to a T.” Mot. at 3. In those 28 actions, the Court permitted the RNC to intervene in a consolidated action when it had previously been granted intervention in one of the matters that became consolidated. The RNC was not first denied intervention in Lewis and Swenson, which is effectively what occurred here. As such, Lewis and Swenson offer no guidance for the current scenario and certainly do not “fit[] this case to a T.” Mot. at 3.

1 No. 100. If the Court permits the RNC to intervene in all the consolidated matters, 2 restrictions such as those imposed by other courts in this district would be warranted 3 because they would (1) align with this Court's previous limitations on briefing for the 4 actual parties to these matters and (2) avoid duplicative and unnecessary briefing.
5 Accordingly, if the Court grants the RNC intervention in all these consolidated matters, 6 MFV Plaintiffs request that the Court order that they can only brief issues not addressed 7 by one of the other parties and must seek leave to file independent briefs.

9 CONCLUSION

10 For these reasons, the Court should deny the RNC's motion to intervene. In the 11 alternative, if the Court grants intervention, it should impose strict limitations, limiting any 12 briefing by the RNC to only address issues not addressed by one of the other parties and 13 only after seeking leave from the Court to file independent briefs.
